The Doctor Says:

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service.
Repeated attacks of bronchitis, chronic sinus infection, or almost any other long-lasting or frequently recurring disease of the respiratory system can result in a distressing condition called bronchiectasis. In bronchiectasis, the small pockets in the lungs which are normally filled with air when a person breathes, are broken down, dilated, and filled with mucus, fluid, or other semi-solid material. The areas which are affected are commonly described as looking like a bunch of grapes. Chronic cough, usually with the bringing up of a fairly heavy mucous sputum, sometimes having a foul odor, is common. The diagnosis depends on special examinations, including an X-ray film. A remarkable instrument, called a bronchoscope, by which the dilated pockets can be seen, is helpful.

Can Be Fatal
Bronchiectasis interferes with health and ability to work and it can produce dangerous complications and even death. It should be prevented if at all possible. Since it can come from so many different causes, a person who has a long-continued cough, regardless of what is producing it, ought to try to get at the trouble early before bronchiectasis has had a chance to set in.

The first step in treatment is to see if the condition which produced the bronchiectasis is still active and to attack the underlying cause. The medical treatment of bronchiectasis has not been very successful at least until recently. Lately, however, there have been some reports on the use of penicillin—usually given by the inhaling method—which offers some hope to people with bronchiectasis, at least if it is not too far advanced. Penicillin is not a cure-all for bronchiectasis, however.

The other method of treatment which is satisfactory for many is surgery. The part of the lung affected with bronchiectasis can be removed by surgery pretty successfully. For those who are unfortunate enough to have developed an advanced type of bronchiectasis, surgery is probably the only good hope of restoring health.

QUESTIONS: Could I have a goiter if the metabolism test shows negative?
ANSWER: A toxic goiter is usually associated with a raised metabolism test such as plus 25. There are exceptions. Also there are other types of goiter which will show a normal test.

Pickering served six years in the Navy and is presently employed as an aviation mechanic by the Naval Air Station, Alameda, Calif.

Dazzlers

Dense White Fog Shrouds Five State Area

Chicago, Oct. 25 (UP)—A dense white fog shrouded five Mid-Western states today, slowing traffic and causing an air force plane to crash with a loss of three lives.

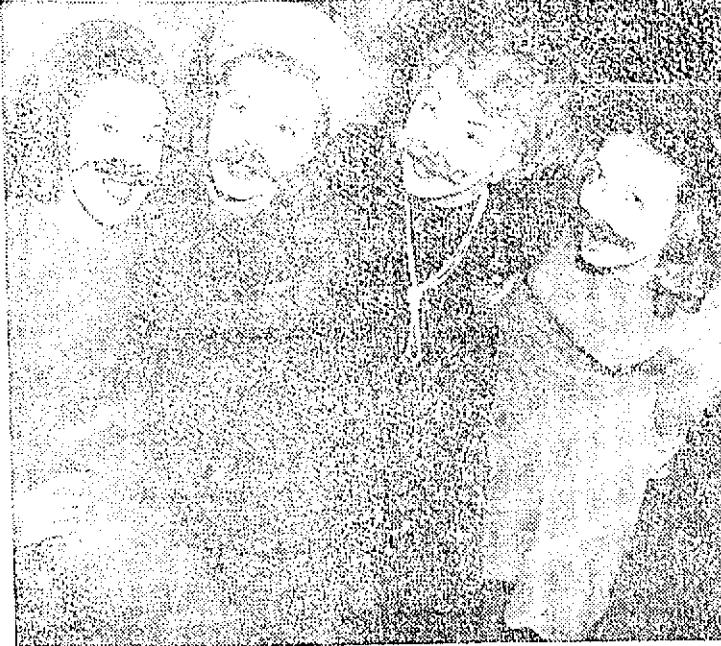

The fog covered parts of Iowa, Southern Wisconsin, all of Illinois, and Indiana, and part of Ohio.

All air travel was stopped at Chicago's Municipal airport at 10:30 last night. Other fields in this area also ceased operations. Visibility was reported below a quarter of a mile.

An air force C-47 crashed on a landing at Chanute Field, Ill., while trying to land during the fog. Three crewmen were killed and 18 passengers injured.

A ground fog yesterday was blamed for the death of George Linn, 29, when his light plane crashed in a farmer's field near Effingham, Ill.

They Wanna Sing With the Boys

These four Chicagoans want to sing with the barber shop quartets, but the boys won't let them. So, they're suing in Superior Court to end "discrimination by men against women in barber shop quartets." They are, left to right, Marilyn Hughes, Patricia Vance, Kit Camper and Nancy Omick.

DOROTHY DIX Happy Second Marriage

Dear Miss Dix: The man I am married to now is my second husband and I have a second wife. He has a boy 13 years old. I have seven children. We are a very happy and harmonious family, and what I want to bring out is that second marriages can be successful if both parties try to play the game fairly. He carries his first wife's picture in his wallet and I carry my first husband's picture in a locket, and we talk quite often about things that took place while our first marriages were alive. We really love each other and see no reason to be jealous of dead people. Did you ever hear of a case like ours?

Answer: Thanks for your letter. It is an oasis in an ocean of tears, for we see so much matrimonial misery all about us, and the air is so filled with the sound of the breaking up of homes and the wails of little orphaned children that it is heartening to hear of one couple who have brought love, common sense and philosophy to solving the problems of second marriages and amalgamating two different sets of children.

Experience Helps
Second marriages are often happier than first marriages, because the high contracting parties have brought to them age and experience, and they know enough not to expect the impossible of their mates. The husband is wise to the ways of women and has learned when to walk softly and when to put down his foot, and read the mind of the women, she has enough gumption at all, has found out by trial and error that you can cajole a man into doing almost anything, but you can't force him an inch. So she does her bawling under cover so skilfully that he never knows that he is being led around by the nose.

But when there are two sets of children, the problem of how to keep the peace is more difficult. For jealousy is apt to set in, and the grandparents on both sides are likely to take a hand in the fight. So it takes a woman who is a diplomat to win over the little rebels and keep everything on an even keel.

Congratulations to you on the job you have accomplished.
Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman 48 years old. Was married 24 years and am now a widow. A man 35 years old, who is an old friend and has just gotten out of the service, wants me to marry him. He says he has loved me for years, but as long as I was happily married he never interfered, but now that I am free he wants me to become his wife.

I tell him that he is too young for me and that he should marry one of the pretty young girls who would be only too glad to get him. He has a wonderful business position and a beautiful car and would make a good husband for anyone, but I still feel that he would be doing wrong by marrying me when there are so many young girls around.

What do you think?
ANSWER: Well, of course, 13 years difference in age is something to consider when the woman is the elder, but I don't think that it need to be an insuperable bar. Personality, character and disposition are to be considered as well as calendar age, and it may be that in reality your friend is as old as you are. Anyway, a man of 35 is adult. He knows what he wants in a wife, and if he has loved you silently and secretly for many years, he will not change and grow tired of you, as a boy might.

Also, every man who went through the war aged years for every month that he faced his horrors. So if you love this young man, go ahead and marry him and don't worry about the young girls. It isn't your business to provide them with husbands.

Frank Simmons of Washington, Arkansas has recently been elected scoutmaster of Troop 53, it is announced by the scout committee chairman W. H. Etter, Jr. M. May who has served the troop as scoutmaster continuously for fourteen years will continue to serve as assistant scoutmaster. Mr. Etter said. Other scouts serving on the troop committee are Finis Johnson, M. C. Parsons, H. L. Piegars, S. Diney and Henry Sanders. Troop 53 has reorganized recently and added four new members. Scoutmasters Simmons and May helped present the first aid demonstrations at the district round table in Hope Wednesday night.

Charles W. Weis, Jr., New York national committee chairman, is a possible appointee.

There has been almost no speculation on a possible appointee for secretary of labor.

Significantly, however, the only labor figure of any stature in the Dewey camp has been William L. McPetrige, general president of the International Union of Building Service Employees.

Most of the speculation about the Dewey post previously had centered around Elliott Reid, commissioner of New York state banks. But the back stage gossip is that if Dewey wins Reid might be picked to head the Federal Reserve bank system, with new head quarters for supervision of the nation's economy up to that job.

The possible loss by the Republicans of Federal control might affect the program of Dewey's proposed cabinet.

If Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Iowa) lost his chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to a Democrat, some of his friends think he would be more interested in becoming secretary of State than remaining in the Senate.

A great many of Dewey's friends think he would pick Reid, Clifford H. Hiss (R-Kan) for secretary of a cabinet.

Unbeaten Grid Teams Narrowed to Field of 36

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Seventeen more college football teams were tied or beaten last week and today only 36 schools still can boast of perfect records.

Army and Cornell, two of the major powers, hooked up in a duel of all-conquering eleven and the Big Red fell, 22-0.

Michigan State, tied 14-14 by Michigan State, was the only other major outfit to slip out.

Other top teams in the select set are California, Michigan, Notre Dame, North Carolina, Army, Georgia Tech, Nevada, Penn and Wisconsin.

Others tied or beaten during the week included Colorado A. M. and Ft. Hays State.

And any one of the remaining eleven are capable of knocking off Hope, its Hot Springs, Little Rock, Snackover, Arkadelphia and Nashville, all potent opponents.

So before the Bobcats get any championship ideas in their heads they must win 5 more games and knock off Blytheville in a playoff.

Most of the fans are pointing to Little Rock as the toughest left on the list.

The team and coaches are pointing to Hot Springs as the next opponent. It would be a sad mistake to sell the Trojans short although they have lost many games.

It should be pointed out that the Hot Springs is coached by Joe Diddy, who not only is familiar with the Bobcat system—Notre Dame shift—but will be gunning to win out over his former pupils.

That Hot Springs is pointing for Hope was emphatically indicated at North Little Rock Thursday night when the Trojans suffered a rousing 37-0 defeat. It looks as if the Trojans may have been playing the Hope game, and North Little Rock took advantage.

Decade, a team that gave Hope a scare earlier in the season, had a pretty tough time downing the Trojans 14 to 13 a few weeks ago. There is no doubt, a Hot Springs can play a brand of football that might upset the Bobcats.

Certainly the boys and coaches realize this and will be playing Hot Springs as some game down the line. The Bobcats are the spot—the same as all winning teams—and will have to play their best in every contest.

Friday night's win gave Hope a 10-0 lead in the 7-AA conference play. The Bobcats have to beat Snackover, there, November 12, to be assured of a playoff berth, and the loop title.

Continues Stellar Play

Jack Ray, all-state end at Hope, Arkansas last year, is now playing a stellar brand of football for the McNeese Junior College Cowboys of Lake Charles, La. At the flank position Jack is an outstanding pass receiver. He is an aggressive and capable ball player and will bear watching by opposing teams.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Carnege Tech students have started painting signs around their own campus demanding a better football team. . . . That goes to show how far emphasis can go. . . . The old custom, still kept alive in some schools, was to smear paint on the other guy's buildings. . . . Maybe the Carnegie thing is just showing the effects of the startling discovery that Tech's good neighbor, Pitt, can beat a Big Nine team. . . . In the past few years the best suggestion for improving Pitt football came from an underdoged halfback. . . . Just before the kickoff as the Panthers were about to take their weekly walloping from a mid-Western rival, the kid turned to the referee and said, "How about letting me handle the whistle in this game and you carry the ball. I think we'd do better."

The referee was none other than the former Chicago great, Jay Berwanger.

It's a Rug Game

In his first game as a Louisiana State U. varsity footballer, some opponent walked off with Halback Billy Baggett's leg. . . . In his second Billy just happened to lie down in time for a player to stomp on his face. . . . Last week against Georgia it happened again. Someone left a cleat mark on Billy's nose. . . . Figuring it must be a habit, Billy's teammates now call him "Carpet" Baggett.

The 14-13 decision Southern Methodist scored over Texas last year left Longhorn fans muttering "wait until next year." That was the only game the Longhorns lost. They went on to slaughter Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, Southern Methodist finished unbeaten and played Penn State to a draw in the Cotton Bowl.

The two teams came to the climax of a drama 68,000 fans expected to witness at enlarged Memorial stadium in Austin. This will be the largest throng ever to see a regularly scheduled conference football game.

Texas' big success story, however, is its athletic officials expect the additional 2,000 to get in some way. Texas has won four and lost two this year. Southern Methodist has won four and lost one.

The great Buck Walker and sharpshooter Gilbert Johnson pack an offensive punch the Longhorns can't match. The performance of each team's line might determine the outcome.

Baylor and Texas Christian tangle in the second most important game this year. Arkansas and Texas A. & M. play for personal prestige and Big pursues its injuries in a non-conference tilt with Texas Tech.

A loss for Texas Christian would leave it an "also ran" in the title chase. A defeat for Baylor wouldoust it from the ranks of the beat on, once-tied eleven.

Tech Alone at Top of College Loop

By CARL BELL

Little Rock, Oct. 25 (AP)—Were it not for the fact that this is a season for upsets, they'd concede the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference football championship to Arkansas Tech right now.

The Wonder Boys, flashing speed, power and a fine aerial attack, cleared what appeared to be their toughest hurdle last week. They defeated Arkansas State Tech 28-0, with whom they shared last year's title, 39-4, in a non-conference attraction which drew 2,500 fans at Russellville.

But Arkansas A. & M., a team assigned to the scrap heap in the pre-season ratings, also remains undefeated in conference play.

And Tech must meet four more loop foes, one of them the surprise Arkansas Aggies. The two foot-racers will collide at Miami cello Nov. 6 in a game which should decide whether the Wonder Boys will finish on top for the fourth straight season.

Tech faces a possible stunning blow at Little Rock next Saturday night. Oklahoma, the "Tiger" couldn't win for losing at the start of the campaign. Big, admittedly well supplied with talent, they may have won three in a row.

Factor in the stretch drive, probably will be decided this week when the Aggies tangle with State Teachers at Conway.

The Aggies kept their shut clean last week by outdaring on a 14-7 victory over Little Rock Junior College.

Magnolia A. & M. moved into third place and kept alive its hopes for at least a title tie by smothering Henderson 35-13. Magnolia's only league defeat was a close one at the hands of Tech.

Santa Anita Open Finds 2-Way Tie

Aradia, Calif., Oct. 25 (AP)—The 54th Santa Anita Open golf tournament wound up in a tie yesterday between Dr. Cary Middlecott, Memphis, Tenn., and Marty Furgol, Albuquerque, N. M. each with 202.

They'll play it off after Middlecott returns from the Hawaiian open. A $500 first prize is at stake. St. Louis' Fred C. Longington, N. C., finished third with 206.

The Yerger High School Tigers will play the Lincoln High School Tigers of Camden, Arkansas, Thursday night of this week at Hammans Stadium at 8 o'clock. The game will be the Tigers' homecoming and they will be facing a tough foe in the Camden club. There has always been a bitter rivalry existing between the two schools, so much so that a close game is expected.

The Tigers came out of their scoreless tie with Hot Springs nursing quite a few injuries but Coach Brooks and his staff will do everything possible to have the team in top physical condition Thursday night.

Football Hits Back Stretch This Weekend

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—College football swings into the back stretch this week with games that should go a long way toward identifying the major bowl principles.

California's potent Bears look like a clinch at the Rose Bowl if they can squeeze by Southern Cal Saturday at Los Angeles. The Pasadena guest may be decided at Evanston where Northwestern engages Ohio State.

Down in Dixie, unblemished North Carolina and Georgia Tech, sticking close to their telephones for Sugar, Orange or Cotton Bowl feelers, run into large humps in their schedules.

Tennessee at Knoxville and Tech's frisky Yellow Jackets meet an undefeated but twice-tied Duke team. The Southwest feature is Southwestern Methodist against Texas at Austin. The victor about now could well land in the Cotton Bowl although both must reckon with Baylor, which has only a tie on its record.

The job for bowl promoters was tough time filled last Saturday when two of the 11 unblemished teams were stricken from the list.

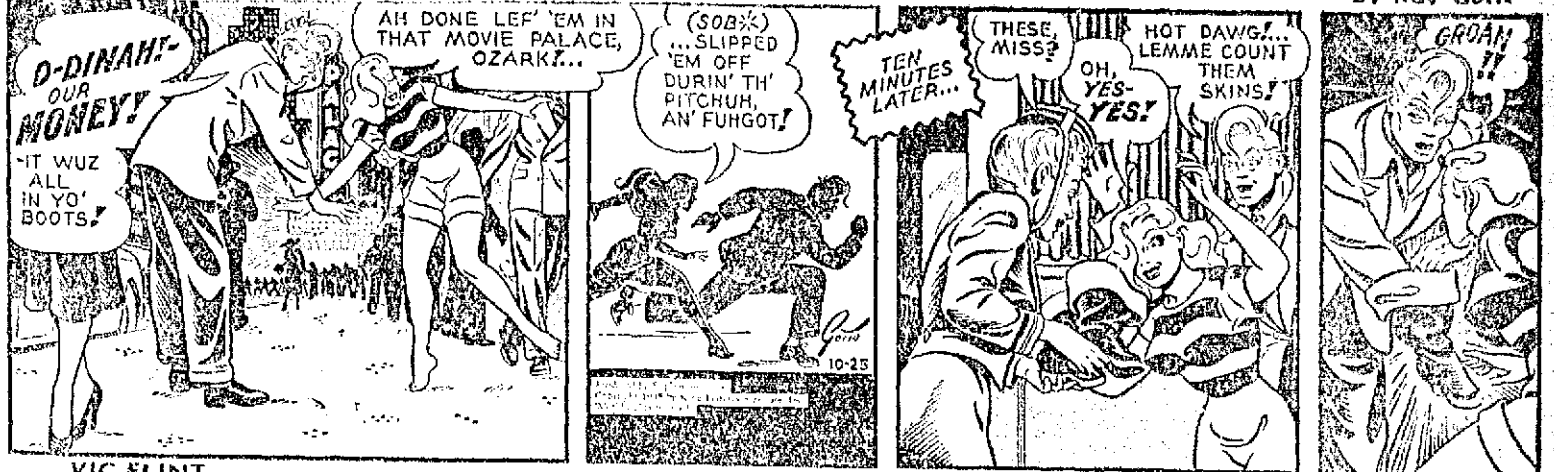

Army's powerful machine rolled over Cornell, 27-6, handing the Big Red its first loss.

Penn State, riding a victory string that covered the 1947 season, was Chicago, Oct. 23 — (UP)—Donald D. Schuchman, 21, didn't know how much Gladys Stein loved him until it was too late.

"Don't send me flowers just one carnation," she wrote in a note pinned on her favorite violet stationery.

But by the pretty 19-year-old brunet choir singer was dead. Miss Stein, whose body was found yesterday and walked to the Belt Line railroad tracks near her home. She waited until the gates lowered as a freight train approached.

Then she stepped out on the tracks and buried her face in her hands. Witnesses said she stood motionless in the glare of the locomotive's headlights until the train struck her, killing her instantly.

Dreschel, a handsome, wavy-haired telephone installer who served with the air force, said he and Miss Stein had kept company for several months but never had been formally engaged.

Lately he had begun dating another girl and they had decided to go "steady."

Thursday evening he took Miss Stein to choir practice at Calvary Lutheran church. It was on the walk home that he told her of his new romance and that he wouldn't be seeing her much longer.

"She didn't seem upset about it," he said. "She seemed to shrug it off."

"I asked her to go to the church banquet Friday night but she said she'd be doing something else."

The girl's mother, Mrs. Marie Stein, said that when her daughter came home from choir practice she went to her room and began writing a letter.

When the letter was finished, she brushed her dark, curly hair and went to bed.

She must have mailed the letter at some post box on the way to the railroad tracks when she arose be-

Court Upholds Anti-Violence Convictions

Little Rock, Oct. 25 — (UP)—Convictions of Roy Cole and Louis Jones in connection with strike violence again were affirmed by the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

Previously, the case was reversed by the Arkansas court, then affirmed and later reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court. Today's decision was on points raised by the U. S. Tribunal.

Cole and Jones were charged with violating Act 192 of 1944, the Arkansas anti-strike violence statute, by attacking Otha Williams, a non-striker, during a strike at the Southern Cotton Oil Plant, Little Rock, Dec. 26, 1945.

During a fight, Walter Campbell was wounded fatally by Williams, today's opinion related.

Cole, Jones and Jessie Bean were indicted for violation of the anti-violence act and convicted. That first conviction was reversed by the supreme court because of error by the trial court, Pulaski circuit. They later were charged by information and again convicted. The state court affirmed the convictions of Cole and Jones, but dismissed the case against Bean for insufficiency of evidence.

The case was then appealed to the U. S. court, which said "in the present state of the record we cannot pass upon those contentions which challenge the validity of section 2 of the Arkansas act."

Today's opinion of the state court said evidence shows the defendants "acted in concert" and assembled at or near a place where a strike was in progress and "by force or violence prevented or attempted to prevent Otha Williams from engaging in a lawful occupation."

"That evidence is sufficient to sustain the verdict under section 2 of Act 192, it added.

In upholding validity of the act, changed under the 14th amendment to the federal constitution, the state court relied on its similarity to a Texas statute, which has been upheld by the United States court.

Justice R. W. Robins dissented to today's opinion and Justice Charles C. Wine did not participate.

Howard (Blue) Clardy was ordered to serve a two-year prison sentence imposed after his conviction in Craighead Circuit court on a charge of operating a gambling house near Jonesboro.

Clardy contended that he was arrested April 23 and tried May 3 and that he had not allowed sufficient time to prepare for trial. He also questioned sufficiency of the evidence.

The supreme court declared no showing had been made that he was not given ample time to prepare a defense. It also held that since gambling was conducted on the second floor of a business known as "Blue's Place" and the defendant and his wife sold beer on the first floor, he tended to show "that if the place was not Blue's Place, as it was called, he participated in its operation, and that testimony is sufficient to sustain the conviction."

An attack upon petitions for a local option liquor election in Marion county was rejected in an opinion affirming the case of D. S. Kreiss and Tom Brinnage vs. D. M. Kreiss and others from the Marion circuit court.

Petitions for the election were presented to County Judge Earl King, who held them valid. Nowlin and Brinnage charged that Judge King was disqualified because he and several of his close relatives had signed the petition.

The circuit court overruled that objection, as did the supreme court today. The high court opinion commented "it would be of course, to the contrary of the county court practice for the county judge not to preside in a case where he had signed a petition or his interest might be more than that of an ordinary citizen or taxpayer."

It added, however, that his signature was a fact which could have been discovered by due diligence, and that failure of Nowlin and Brinnage to file in the county court a motion for disqualification constituted a "waiver" of the alleged disqualification.
